With up to 36% upside seen, 'buys' have it for ICICI Bank

Rerating of lender to be gradual: Analysts

NIKITA VASHISHT

ith a solid 40 per cent year-on-year (YoY) growth in net profit during the April-June quarter (Q1) of FY24, ICICI Bank has further cemented its place as the "best in class" bank, analysts said on Monday.

Lauding the lender's outperformance over peers in the recently concluded quarter, they have retained their 'buy calls on the stock with target prices (TP) ranging between ₹1,150 and ₹1,350. This suggests a potential upside of up to 36 per cent over the next one year.

Shares of the Mumbaibased bank hit a new record high of ₹1,009 on the BSE in intraday trade, but settled at ₹992, down 0.5 per cent. By comparison, the benchmark S&P BSE Sensex slipped 0.45 per cent, while the S&P BSE Bankex was down 0.55 per cent. During the June quarter, ICICI Bank sustained its alltime high return on assets (RoAs) of 2.4 per cent (up 5 basis points (QoQ) with net profit at ₹9,648 crore (up 40 per cent YoY/6 per cent QoQ).

Its core pre-provision profit grew 35 per cent YoY to ₹13,900 crore as higher net interest income (up 38 per cent YoY/3 per cent QoQ) was offset by higher opex. Net interest margins moderated by 12 bps QoQ to 4.8 per cent.

However, what impressed analysts the most was the sharp pick-up in deposit growth (up 18 per cent YoY/5 per cent QoQ), which had remained muted in the previous four quarters.

Nomura | Buy | Target Price (TP): ₹1,190

At 2.6x one-year forward book value per share (BVPS), ICICI trades at over 60 per cent premium to its 10-year average, but we expect this to be sustained due to clear visibility on return on equity (RoE; seen at 18 per cent over FY24-26), and earnings per share (EPS) compounding (16 per cent CAGR over FY23-26).

Jefferies | Buy | TP: ₹1,240

Deposit growth improved to 18 per cent YoY, highest in nine quarters, and 5 per cent 000. We believe that with pick-up in deposit growth, the bank should be able to support loan growth; although it would add to some pressure on NIMs.

Management highlighted that cost of fund (CoF) will rise, but did not quantify the pace of increase. Opex growth will remain high as the bank continues to add employees and invest in digital. We believe ICICI's earnings will continue to outperform the sector like in the last 14

JM Financial | Buy | TP: ₹1,155

ICICI Bank is clocking strong RoAs of 2.4 per cent for last couple of quarters and ability to sustain over 2 per cent RoAs while manoeuvring NIMs will ensure continued outperformance of the stock. ICICI Bank's share of unsecured products is 13 per cent (vs 16.5 per cent for HDFC Bank) and we expect further rise in share of these products to offset the cost of funds impact on NIMs.

Prabhudas Lilladher | Buy | TP: ₹1,180 While bank expects funding cost to go up, which could pressure margins; we believe asset yields could be protected due to higher unsecured growth and repricing of bond portfolio. Hence we raise estimates for NIM for FY24/25 by 15/11bps.

Emkay Global | Buy | TP: ₹1,330 We have raised our earnings estimates for FY24-26 by 3-7 per cent, led by better margins/fees and lower loan-loss provisions. ICICI Bank remains our top pick in the banking space, given its superior returns profile, top-management credibility, and strong capital/provision buffers.

> Sharekhan | Buy | TP: ₹1,200 From here on, only operating leverage can help to sustain current RoA trajectory, which could be partly offset by NIMs moderation and normalisation of credit cost. Further re-rating is likely to be very gradual, based on sustainable performance and quality earnings.

Kotak Institutional Equities | Buy | TP: ₹1,150

There are near-term challenges: NIM is likely to come off but the pace of reduction is probably slower than what we had anticipated earlier; competitive intensity is rising; loan growth is unlikely to be a meaningful differentiator from here on; return ratios and credit costs are no longer as different as it was in the past.

Nil ITR: A must for those with no taxable income

BINDISHA SARANG

When it comes to filing a tax return, experts reiterate one mantra irrespective of the taxpaver's income level: File your returns even though your taxable income is below the threshold for filing Income-Tax Return (ITR).

An ITR filed when an individual or an entity's income falls below the taxable limit is referred to as a nil ITR. Says Ankit Rajgarhia, principal associate, Karanjawala & Company, Advocates, "By submitting this return, taxpayers demonstrate that they did not earn enough income during the financial year to be liable to pay income tax."

Multiple benefits

While the Income-Tax (I-T) Act of 1961 does not make it mandatory for one to file a nil ITR, doing so has myriad benefits. Says Maneet Pal Singh, partner, I.P. Pasricha & Co.: "A nil return is accepted as a valid $proof of address\,when\,applying\,for\,$ a passport or a visa." This is particularly beneficial for young people choosing to emigrate, who may not have a taxable income.

Vikalp Bothara, partner, MAKV & Associates, also underscores the utility of prompt filing a nil return. "It helps to sidestep any potential penalties or legal hassles. It ensures a clean record with the tax department, while also serving as a legal proof of income." Despite an individual's income being below the taxable limit, hanks at times deduct Tax Deducted at Source (TDS) on interest from fixed deposits (when the interest income crosses $the \, limit \, for \, TDS$ deduction). Says Singh, "A nil ITR must be filed to claim refund of TDS or any excess tax paid." Those encased in business activities, or having losses, an ITR filing is mandatory to carry forward those losses. Banks, too, ask for your ITR substantial investments, must file a

when you apply for a loan. Says Bothara, "ITR is useful when applying for loans, or when securing compensation for accidental death or disability. It is also instrumental in establishing trust with potential business associates. Even applications for government tenders might require tax return receipts of the > preceding five years." In short, consistent filing of ITR, including nil returns, bolsters an individual's financial credibility. The I-T Act also makes the filing of nil return necessary for specific categories of taxpayers. Says Sandeep Bajaj, managing partner, PSL Advocates & Solicitors, "For designated types of business entities, submitting a nil return is obligatory under the I-T Act. even if there is no activity within a firm or its operations have not

You can't do without it

There is a widespread misconception that filing a nil $return\,is\,not\,necessary\,if\,no\,tax\,is$ due. Says Rajgarhia: "If you meet the criteria for ITR filing, you must submit a return, even if it's nil. Nonfiling can result in penalties, scrutiny, and legal issues.'

How to proceed?

The procedure for filing a nil return is similar to filing a regular ITR. Says Naveen Wadhwa, deputy general manager, Taxmann, "A resident person without foreign assets can file in ITR-1. A non-resident or a resident with foreign assets can file in ITR-2."

Additional conditionalities

Be aware of whether your financial situation requires you to file a nil return. Says Wadhwa, "Such a situation could arise when despite your income being below the basic exemption limit, you may be required to file a return because you meet certain conditions, such as foreign travel expenditure or electricity bill exceeding the defined threshold limit."

Even when filing a nil return, double-check all information to prevent inaccuracies or inconsistencies that could result in penalties or processing delays. Says Bothara, "Report all income sources, even if they amount to zero. This practice can be advantageous for future financial endeavours by demonstrating statutory compliance." Maintain comprehensive financial records, even if your income is nil, as these may be required in future audits. Retain copies of your filing acknowledgement and verification form (ITR-V), Form 26AS, and other relevant documents. Finally, adhere to the tax-filing deadline. "The deadline for an individual to file a nil return is July 31, 2023. A belated ITR can be filed until December 31 of the applicable assessment year," says Singh.
